TROOPS CALLED UP

Germany Pledges No Violation of Neutrality Territory

BUCHAREST, Rumania —(AP)—Premier Alexandru Calinescu, foe of the pro-Nazi "Iron Guard," and staunch advocate of Rumanian economic and political co-operation with France and Great Britain, was assassinated Thursday.

The premier was shot from an automobile which drove alongside his in a Bucharest street.

Rumanian diplomats in Budapest said the slaying was "highly significant just at the moment when German and Russian troops are approaching Rumania's northern frontiers."

It was also disclosed that the Bucharest government had suppressed rigidly all news of Iron Guard agitation throughout Rumania which was to have begun as soon as Germany invaded Poland.

(Other sources said they believed a revolt of the outlawed Iron Guard had come.)

The Bucharest radio announced the assassination but gave no details. Budapest said the Bucharest broadcaster was cut off, declaring there was "terrible excitement" in Rumania.

Troops were called out to prevent a coup. Eight alleged assassins have been arrested.

After the killing another group seized the radio station, wounding the announcer. Two of these were arrested.

A rigid censorship was clamped down in Rumania until the facts could be established.

No Neutral Violations

BERLIN, Germany —(AP)—Propaganda Minister Goebbels gave foreign correspondents Thursday a vigorous denial of allegations that Germany intended to violate the neutrality of Belgium, The Netherlands or Luxembourg.

He said his presence at Thursday's conference was proof that he was neither dead, captive, nor out of sympathy with Hitler, as some reports alleged.

No Hope for Poland

LONDON, Eng. —(AP)—Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax Thursday declared "we must not undertake anything that does not directly contribute to victory in the European war, in commenting on failure of Poland to get help."

Slim Air Victories

PARIS, France —(AP)—Military dispatches Thursday reported French and British pilots had brought down an undetermined number of German planes in the past few days in victorious dog-fights on the Western front.

The dispatches said the French are threatening the approaches of Zwickau, Germany, at the upper end of the Blies river valley, after numerous pitched battles.

Reds Advance in Poland

MOSCOW, Russia —(AP)—Soviet Russian forces strengthened their hold on eastern Poland Thursday as communists reported new advances by the Red army along a wide front.

In the north it was reported the Russians had occupied Grodno, miles from the East Prussian border. In the south troops reported they were in possession of Kovel, Ukrainian.

By MILTON BRONNER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON—If the seaways can be kept open by the British and French fleets, the France of today will be more powerful than it was in the first world war.

For open sea-ways mean for France ample levies of fighting men and ample supplies of food stuffs and raw material.

In all comparisons that are ordinarily made Hitler's figure of 80,000,000 Germans is always contrasted with the 12,000,000 people who live in France.

But that is to forget that the French republic has an empire flung around the world just as has Great Britain. In fact, it is second only to Britain's.

Dynamic Mandel Gets Things Done

For some years now the French Minister of Colonies has been the dynamic, Jewish statesman, Georges Mandel. This man has a record for getting things done.

During the first world war, Mandel was the right hand man of Georges Clemenceau, when that real Frenchman took the hel as the war-winning Premier. Later on in his career, Mandel became Minister of Posts and Telegraphs—a job like that of the American Postmaster General. As such he completely reorganized that very poor service and made it highly efficient.

Mandel had no sooner become Minister of Colonies than he bent all his energies to make sure that the colonies could and would give ample support to the mother country if and when she again had an hour of trial.

Colonies Can Supply Vital Needs
According to recent French figures, the needs of France can be supplied by the colonies in the following amounts: Rice, 100 per cent; cocoa, 100 per cent; bananas, 100 per cent; Indian corn, 100 per cent; sugar cane, 100 per cent; tea, 100 per cent; vegetable oils, 100 per cent; meat, 80 per cent; coffee, 40 per cent; rubber, 100 per cent.

Apperson Funeral Is Held at Hazen

Last Rites Are Held at 10:30 o'Clock for Accident Victim

Funeral services for John Apperson, 79, who died in a Josephine hospital here Wednesday afternoon of injuries sustained in an automobile accident in downtown Hope Monday night, were held at 10:30 a. m. Thursday at Hazen, Ark.

Hope Furniture company ambulance left here at 5 a. m. for Hazen with the body.

Mr. Apperson had been a resident of Hope 20 years, coming here from Hazen to make his home with the Luther Holloman family. He was an uncle of Mrs. Holloman, nearest relative.

Mr. Apperson was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Merlin Coop. Police expressed the opinion the accident was unavoidable.

More Livestock to Be On Exhibition at the County Fair

RULES ARE CHANGED

Dairy Cattle Must Be On Display by Noon Wednesday Next Week

To show how much fair officials are stressing livestock at the Hempstead county fair this year, more than five hundred dollars are offered in premiums on livestock alone.

Indications are there will be more livestock on exhibition than ever before and fair officials are preparing to carefully judge all exhibits so have found it necessary to make some changes in the rules in the catalog.

Everyone interested in the livestock exhibit should read the rules carefully and note the following revised rules.

1. Dairy cattle must be in place by noon Wednesday September 27th. Judging will begin at 1:30 p. m.

2. Beef cattle must be in place by 9:30 Thursday, September 28th. Judging will start at 1:30 p. m.

3. Horses, mules and swine must be in place by 9:30 a. m. on Thursday, September 28th. Judging will begin at 10:00 a. m.

4. Riding animals with mounts will be judged during the Horse Show which begins at 4:00 p. m.

5. Jacks and stallions will be judged Thursday, September 28th, at 10 a. m.

Mineral Springs Is Killed In Wreck

N HVILLE, Ark. — Niven Latimer, 35, was killed instantly about midnight Tuesday between Hatten Gap and Page, Okla., when his lumber truck got out of control and was wrecked.

Latimer was a former resident of Mineral Springs, but was living in Hatten Gap at the time of his death. Survivors include his wife, the former Miss Cleo Jones of Mineral Springs, two children and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Latimer of Locksburg.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

No Action Taken on Low License Fees

Pool and Domino Operators Request Reduction
In Fees

The Hope city council Tuesday night took no action on a request to reduce license fees on pool and domino tables operating in the city.

The request for a reduction was made by Joe B. Greene and Mr. Kinard of the Kinard pool hall.

Two representatives of the Missouri Pacific railroad voiced opposition to a movement by the city of a crossing over the Missouri Pacific tracks at Laurel street.

They estimated that it would cost about $9,000 for the crossing.

Since construction of the new $25,000 fire station at Laurel and Second streets, council members pointed out the need for such a crossing at Laurel—explaining that the city's fire truck is forced to travel two extra blocks in reaching the mill section in the northeast part of the city.

No definite action was taken on the street crossing Tuesday night.

The council voted to pay E. F. McFadden, city attorney, $29.85 for half of his total expense for 10 days spent in Little Rock attending the hearing of the Louisiana-Nevada Transit company.

Grid Fans Urged to Give Smackover a Big Welcome Here

Special Train Will Arrive at Missouri-Pacific Depot 6:45 p. m.

A RIDE TO STADIUM

Bobcats to Pack Big Weight Advantage
Against Buckaroos

One of the most royal welcomes ever given a Hope football team and its supporters was the reception last year when the Bobcat Special pulled into the town of Smackover.

Hundreds of fans and the 55-piece Smackover band greeted the special train and provided transportation to the Buckaroo football field.

For four straight years the Smackover High School grid team has been seeking a victory over Hope. Although defeated in the past, the enthusiasm over playing the Bobcats seems to be growing by the years.

This season finds Smackover sending a special train to Hope. Indications are that about 500 fans will be on that train when it arrives in Hope at 6:45 p. m. Friday.

School and athletic officials are appealing to Hope fans to return such a welcome to the visitors—as was given the Bobcats last year.

Arrive at 6:45 p. m.
The train is due to arrive here more than one hour before the game—and all Hope fans having an empty seat in their automobile are urged to meet the train and provide transportation to the football field.

An effort will be made to clear Main street in order that Hope cars may park on either side of the street from Jacks News Stand and the Capital hotel—south toward the football field.

Fans will be pouring off the train and seeking rides. If you have an empty seat in your car—school and athletic officials of Hope will appreciate it.

Wagon and Truck In Smash-Up North of Hope

A mule was killed and a truck and wagon damaged in a smash-up on highway 67 five miles northeast of Hope about 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

The Waterloo youths, whose names were not learned, were treated at Josephine hospital for minor injuries and then released. None were hurt seriously.

The owner of the wagon and mules were not learned. The wagon was said to have carried reflectors on it—but all that officers were able to learn was that apparently the driver of the truck failed to see the reflectors because of blinding lights from another vehicle.

LONDON, Eng. —(AP)—The British government announced Thursday that two Royal Air Force flying boats had rescued the crew of 34 of the steamship Kensington Court after it had been sunk by a submarine, somewhere in the Atlantic.

It was the first case in which an entire crew had been picked at sea by planes.

The aircraft made an unsuccessful search for the submarine.

Sinkings by Submarines Are 'Legal' if Lives Are Saved

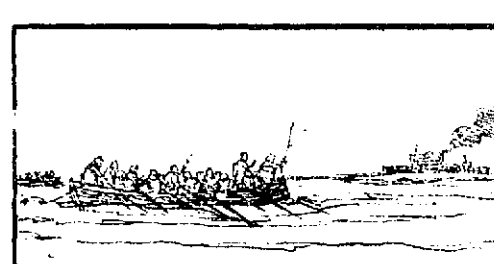

Sketches by NEA Service Staff Artist Harry Giesinger

Since the war started, 23 British merchant and passenger ships have been sunk by German submarines. The sinking of ships is not in itself a violation of international law, if done in accordance with a five power protocol accepted by Germany in 1936. Under these rules of restricted submarine warfare, sinkings are not held justifiable unless the ship either resists or refuses to stop, until safety of passengers and crew and ship's papers is assured. England is protesting that many of the sinkings laid to Nazi submarines were done in a manner outlawed by international law. Particularly, the British charge the sinking of the passenger liner, Athenia, was a "most horrible example." The Germans disclaim responsibility. No rules apply, of course, to sinkings of war vessels like the aircraft carrier, Courageous. Sketch above illustrates a sinking—"illegal" if the ship obeyed the submarine's commands, but "legal" if the ship resisted or tried to run. The sketches below illustrate the rules governing "legal" sinking of merchant ships at sea.

Sinking of merchant ships with all hands held justified only if it refuses persistently to stop on command or resists visit or search

Ships that halt on command may be sunk only if passengers, crew and ship's papers first are placed in a "place of safety" by attacking submarine.

Ship's boats not regarded as a "place of safety" unless safety is assured in view of weather conditions, by proximity of land or rescue vessels.

President Gives a 4-Point Program to the Congress

Asserts Present Arms Embargo Is "Dangerous" to
U. S. Neutrality

POLICY "ALTERED"

Roosevelt Thinks Embargo Threatens Peace of America Today

WASHINGTON —(AP)—President Roosevelt asked congress Thursday to repeal the arms embargo provisions of the neutrality law because they are "most vitally dangerous to American neutrality, American security, and American peace."

In a message delivered in person to the special session of congress the president said he could offer no hope that "the shadow over the world might swiftly pass."

He said the arms embargo law "so alters the historic foreign policy of the United States that it impairs peaceful relations of the United States with foreign nations."

In a renewed plea for non-partisanship he reassured the nation of his belief that America could keep from being embroiled in Europe's conflict. When and if the embargo is scrapped, Roosevelt recommended consideration of other policies "reinforcing American safety" listing the following:

1. Restricting American merchant vessels entering the danger zones.
2. Preventing American citizens from traveling on belligerents' vessels.
3. Requiring cash-and-carry purchases by belligerents.
4. Preventing expansion of war credits to belligerents.

Asks Complete Repeal

WASHINGTON —(AP)—President Roosevelt was reported Wednesday to have indicated to a bipartisan White House conference that he would prefer complete repeal of the neutrality act to any modification.

General who attended the conference including Chairman Pitman (Dem. Nev.) of the senate Foreign Relations committee, was said to have advised Mr. Roosevelt that there was little chance that congress would approve scrapping neutrality statutes and returning to international law.

The discussion veered to the possibility of repealing only the clause banning arms shipments to belligerents, and substituting a cash-and-carry system for such sales.

A person who attended said that during the discussion about complete repeal Pittman advised Mr. Roosevelt that there would not be more than five of the senate foreign relations committee's 23 votes for any such plan.

Vice President Garner, it was reported, told the president he always had favored international law as the basis of this country's dealings with other nations. Mr. Roosevelt was said to have indicated his assent to this view.

Mr. Roosevelt was reported to have outlined the workings of international law in past years, beginning with the American Revolution. He and Pitman engaged in a technical conversation as to how such law would affect Americans in the present world situation.

Those present asserted there was some discussion as to whether international law if it were adopted as the basis of United States policy, should be supplemented by minor statutory provisions, penalizing citizens who disobeyed orders against traveling on belligerent ships.

Alfred M. Landon advised the chief executive that his views on the neutrality question had been outlined at a press conference. Landon thought that congress should remain continuously in session as long as there is war in Europe.

Mr. Roosevelt expressed the belief that it should not require more than two or three weeks for Congress to act on neutrality legislation. He added that it would be desirable, if congress acted and quickly adjourned, for the majority and minority leaders in both Houses to remain in Washington to advise with the administration on neutrality policy. Mr. Roosevelt said this suggestion would be included in his message to congress. He did not say exactly what he would suggest regarding legislation.

A Ghost Walks

How unreal it seems, when the guns of a new European war are thundering, for an army court-martial to be sitting down solemnly to try Grover Cleveland Bergdall!

Bergdall was the spoiled son of a German-blooded family of rich brewers. He was a playboy and sportsman. He was drafted into the army, and he walked out on it while less-favored contemporaries were fighting and dying. He escaped to Germany, married, reared a family of children, and at last returned to the United States just in time to escape once more a devastating war. For Bergdall's conduct, no one, not even Bergdall, offers much excuse. He says he is ready to face any penalty meted out to him.

What such a penalty should be we wouldn't know, 20 years after the event and in the midst of the clamor of a war sprung from the roots of that other one. But an aging Bergdall standing before a trial board is somehow a ridiculous and pathetic figure in September, 1939, a ghost-like and unreal skeleton from the closets of 1918.

Coaches Should Watch for Concussion, Tape Ankles, Knees of Grid Players

Last of a series of articles on football training and injuries.

In football, the knees, ankles and shoulders are most frequently injured. The thighs are most likely to be bruised.

Weak ankles should always be strapped with elastic or with adhesive tape before practice, and certainly before any game in which the player may be subject to injury. In bandaging and ankle to support it, the tape is wrapped like a figure eight over the ankle and around the bottom of the foot. An elastic or gauze bandage may be reinforced with adhesive plaster.

Football players suffer with slipping of the cartilages in the knee. The best type of bandage for the knee is one with an "X" strapping above and below the kneecap. This, also, should be reinforced with adhesive plaster.

Football trainers always have trouble deciding the amount of bandaging and padding that should be allowed to a player. The modern game is very fast and is not a contest between men of bulk exclusively. Too much strapping and too heavy padding interferes with speed.

Sporting goods establishments provide all sorts of special pads and braces for the injuries that are associated with football. Any athlete subject to frequent injuries should have the full protection of these devices.

Most serious of all injuries in football are those affecting the brain and the skull. A concussion of the brain means that the tissue of this vital organ has actually been bruised. The first sign of such an injury is a loss of memory for recent events. A person who has had a concussion may not remember what has happened during the previous hour or two.

The least important symptom is a slight, dizziness, but coaches and trainers should not be unimpressed when a player comes out of a sudden impact with another player and seems to be dizzy or dazed. The player should immediately be put at rest and the extent of the injury be determined.

Watch His Smoke

CUMBERLAND, Md.—(AP)—John H. Twigg believes with Kipling: "A woman is only a woman, but a good cigar is a smoke."

Memorial Hospital attaches found the 75-year-old patient's bed empty. He had walked out on a boy of pretty nurses. They caught up with him a block away. He was in pajamas and robe, contentedly puffing a perfecto.

Whenever a player has had a head injury, he should be put flat on his back. He should be questioned as to headache and dizziness and given a simple test for his memory of recent events. If he cannot remember the names of his opponents, who is on the offense, the score or similar matters, it is not safe for him to play again.

If he is merely dizzy, he should be permitted to stand and move about to determine whether or not he has any signs of loss of balance. Such symptoms are serious and the player should be removed immediately from the contest to a hospital bed for an examination.

Many players under the excitement of the game lose away the headgear. This may be a magnificent gesture, but a coach should never permit a player to play without a helmet. There have been too many cases of concussion of the brain and even fracture of the skull to take a chance without adequate head protection.

Missionary Baptists Organize New Church

A Missionary Baptist church has been organized at the old Primitive Baptist church arbor, three miles north of Patmos on the Hope-Patmos road, and there will be another meeting Sunday, September 24, at the arbor to discuss plans for a church building.

R. L. Byers, Mr. Johnson and others who helped organize the congregation at the first meeting are urged to attend the conference on church construction also.

Film Shows Action of Army Air Corps

"March of Time" Picture Appears at Saenger Next Sunday

In its latest issue entitled "Soldiers With Wings," The March of Time brings to the screen of the Saenger Theatre starting Sunday the first complete and authentic motion picture story of the U. S. Army Air Corps—the little-understood but highly important wing of national defense, which is today being built up at a cost of more than 200 million dollars.

With the full cooperation of Air Corps officers and men, this latest March of Time shows how aircraft manufacturers throughout the U. S. are today pushing aside private orders to complete for the War Department more than 3,000 new high-speed army planes.

In dramatic scenes of the U. S. Air Corps in action, The March of Time shows how each type of fighting plane performs its highly-specialized job in the new scheme of national defense, how scientists at the Air Corps' 10 million dollar research laboratory are diligently seeking new ways to make military planes fly higher and faster, and how the air-minded young man of the nation are today being selectively recruited and trained as full-fledged "Soldiers With Wings."

Although the U. S. Air Corps already has 2,300 of the best-trained military pilots in the world today, The March of Time points out it is now driving for 25,000 new men to be trained as mechanics and technicians, because Air Corps experience has shown that every plane and pilot in the air requires a crew of eight specialists on the ground. Altogether, the Air Corps needs and must have a force of nearly 50,000 soldiers who are expert in handling and caring for military planes.

In "Soldiers With Wings," The March of Time shows how young college graduates and West Pointers are undergoing intensive primary training at nine privately-owned aviation schools that have been taken over by the Air Corps. The film also shows how those who have survived the rigors of their two-week primary training period are being drilled in the intricate tactics of mass formation and aerial warfare strategy to be commissioned officers in the Air Corps—full-fledged "Soldiers With Wings."

Showing how the people of every large European community today live in terror as military air fleets are speedily being built up abroad, The March of Time points out that the United States is in fact the only power "in all the world" whose people do not live in daily fear of air raids and destruction.

In view of the War Department's recently inaugurated campaign to double this country's strength in the air, The March of Time's "Soldiers With Wings" is an especially timely and significant film that will command the interest of every man and woman in America today.

SERIAL STORY WORKING WIVES

BY LOUISE HOLMES
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Dan returns, happy after a pleasant day with the head family. Marian, infuriated because she has been left out, sends him into a quarrel, taunts him, calls him "a spineless worm who never turns." "I've wanted to turn you out of my life," she says. "Now you have made it easy!" Dan replies, leaves the apartment.

CHAPTER XV
MARIAN waited for Dan to come back. He'd walk over to the lake, around several blocks, and back. He'd realize that she was tired, nervous, upset. Or would he? After all, Dan did not know about Sally Blake.

With his departure, her anger had turned to miserable ashes. She remembered her insane statements with horror. Thinking it over, she could find no excuse for her behavior.

Dan returned at the end of an hour. Quietly, he hung his hat in the closet. Marian was still sitting in the chair where she had fallen when he released her. Getting to her feet, she went to the hall.

"I'm sorry, Dan," she said. "It's all right." He passed her and went to the bedroom. She sat down again, her knees like ribbons. Dan had said it was all right, but it wasn't all right. She had a feeling that it would never be all right with her and Dan again.

She longed to talk to him, to tell him about Sally Blake who was slowly, but surely, making headway with her subtle oyster methods. If she told him, if she penitently admitted that he had been right and she was wrong, might he not say, "Forget it, Glad. Let Sally have the job. Let's take a little apartment and begin again. I'll get the sales managership next time."

Did she want that? Did she honestly want to start again where they had left off 10 years ago? Could she be happy without the excitement of a downtown office, without money of her own which she could spend as she suited her?

Wearily, she laid her head against the back of the chair. No, that wasn't the answer. It might have been 10 years ago, but not now. She and Dan loved each other, she had never wanted any other man. Surely they could find a middle ground which would hold the old happy companionship.

What had Dan said? She had told him he was a spineless worm who never turned. How could she have been so rude and cruel? He'd said that he had wanted to turn for a long time and now she had made it easy for him. But he hadn't meant it. They would laugh at the quarrel and forget it.

BREAKFAST was a tense meal, Dan speaking politely when necessary, offering nothing. Marian did not touch her breakfast. She drank three cups of black coffee and let it go at that.

Passing Dolly's door on the way out, she stopped. "Hello, Dolly." "Oh, hello, I didn't see Dan go down." So Dan was that low in spirit, too low for a greeting to Dolly.

"I guess he was in a hurry. Have a good time last night?" "Simply wonderful," Dolly sighed. "We went to the Gold Coast Room and had the love-liest dinner. We danced and danced—the music was simply mar-velous."

Marian smiled indulgently. Dolly was like a 16-year-old girl after her first date. "Are you going to see him again?" she asked.

"Um-hmm," Dolly nodded her pale gold head. "Tomorrow night. He's going to ask you and Dan. He says he owes you a debt of gratitude." Dolly blushed and laughed.

"That'll be fun," Marian returned lightly. "It would do us good to step out once in a while." She thought, Will Dan go? Will he ever be my Dan again? He said he'd turn. Where? Away from his wife? Oh, no!

Dolly was looking at her anxiously. "You're tired, Marian. Didn't you get rested yesterday?" "Of course, I'm fine." She went slowly down the stairs and out into the murky morning. A raw wind blew in from the lake and she pulled her fur cape around her throat. The day was like herself, bleak and chill.

Dan waited and she got into the car. Not a word was said on the drive downtown. Dan's mouth was tight, Marian sensed his grimness through a numb haze.

EVERYTHING went wrong at the office that morning. Sally Blake was too radiant, too young and joyous. Seeing her, Marian felt old and jaded.

Sally chirped, "Did you have a nice week-end, Mrs. Harkness?" Marian stopped at her desk. "Wonderful," she said. "My husband and I celebrated our wedding anniversary. We had a dinner party and a grand time. Sally needn't think she was the only one who had good times."

"Your wedding anniversary—nice—how many years?" "Twelve."

Mr. Fellows nodded without his usual smile and Marian's mind flew back over Saturday's work. Had she forgotten something? For once, it did not seem to matter. "Anything wrong, G. F.?" she asked.

made herself ask. "No—guess not—Monday morning blues—ever hear of them?" He peered at her curiously. "I like Monday morning—rusted—all set for a good week." It was a worthy attempt but missed fire. Mr. Fellows changed the subject, frowning. "I've just had a session with the Avery girl—Florence Avery. She bawled all over me—why I hire married women—"

Marian removed her hat. "I'll send for her at once." "You don't need to. I gave her a raise," disgustedly. "It seems she had to have a raise or lose her husband."

"I told Florence she couldn't have a raise," Marian said quietly. "It was the wrong thing to say. Mr. Fellows was looking for a chance to explode and he exploded."

"Is this my office or yours?" he bellowed.

MARIAN took instant offense at his tone. "I have charge of the girls. You went over my head when you engaged Sally Blake, now you've done it again." Her ragged nerves were playing tricks again.

"And who has a better right?" Marian leaned toward him, her eyes spitting fire. Never before had she lost her temper in Grant Fellows' office. "I want you to make my position clear right here and now," she flared. "Am I your private secretary or am I not?" She was making a fool of herself and she knew it.

Mr. Fellows bounced from his chair. He stood facing her, a tense, wiry little figure. "Be careful, Marian," he said. "You are proving a point that I believe and hate to admit—the inadvisability of keeping any girl in the office until she thinks she owns it."

She stared at him with stricken eyes and he softened. "We're both edgy this morning. Let's drop the matter for the present. I shouldn't have given Florence Avery a raise, that's what makes me sore—but she bawled."

Marian knew that she must make her peace, and hastily. She put a hand on Mr. Fellows' arm. "You're an old softy at heart, G. F., and I like you for it. Forgive me for being cross—I'm sorry."

He shaken by the battle of words, she turned to her desk. It was behaving queerly, one moment it was there, the next moment gone. She took a faltering step, swaying. She heard Mr. Fellows shout, "Miss Herrod—Sally—come here—Marian has fainted."

Bruce Catton Says:

Dies Group Convinced Browder's Party Is U. S. Agent of Russia

By BRUCE CATTON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Whatever else General Secretary Earl Browder of the American Communist Party did in his appearance before the Dies committee, he left that group pretty well convinced that the party is actually an agent of the Russian government and hence ought to register with the State Department as a foreign propaganda outfit.

Whether the committee will be able to make that conviction bear fruit is another question.

The Justice Department is willing to act if it can have proof—but it wants real proof, not just a general conviction that Browder is doing his best to handle an assignment handed him against his wish.

Treaty Talk Brings Discomfort

The foulness of the trick played on Comrade Browder by Comrade Stalin in signing the pact with Hitler was well illustrated by Browder's testimony. Head of the American Communists, Browder was a remarkably shrewd and agile witness.

He got by with little trouble on the first day, told about the party organization in the U. S., fenced diplomatically with committee members, sprang his story about the "Republican plot" of 1936, told how and where the party gets its money, and went to some lengths to emphasize that the American party is completely independent takes no orders from abroad, and shapes its own course as its own home-grown members see fit.

But on the second day the committee got around to the Russian-German treaty, and gave Browder some highly uncomfortable moments.

So the CPA was totally independent, eh? It had always derided the notion that Hitler and Stalin would ever sign a treaty, hadn't it? It was pledged to an unending war against Hitler, wasn't it?

Well then, if that was the case, how is it? Wasn't the change ordered by back-flip and hail this treaty? Could it perform such a speedy back-flip and hail this treaty as a move toward world peace and against Nazism? Wasn't the change ordered by Moscow and swallowed here brudglingly?

Browder said in effect that he could explain all, and proceeded to do so voluminously. But performing the rites of explanation before an unsympathetic and openly skeptical committee couldn't have been any fun.

Will War Help Merchant Marine?

Getting war-morant Americans out of Europe has temporarily played hob with American Atlantic shipping business. A lot of the American vessels trading to Europe were ordered to drop everything and pick up refugees.

The Maritime Commission expects a normal basis to be restored soon, however; and then it figures the American merchant marine should benefit by the war.

In recent years only 30 per cent of America's foreign trade has been carried in American ships. Because of the war, a good-sized slice of that other 70 per cent is henceforth going to be available—if sufficient American ships can be provided to handle it. There are now about 350 vessels in the American merchant marine, and more are coming.

The business of war zones and blockades is likely to be complicating factor, the effect of which can't be clearly figured just now. The neutrality law does not prohibit American ships from passing through war zones, provided they do not carry contra-

What's An Ole War Between Friends?

The Boy's Club of Centerburg is having its first meeting of the season. It is Saturday. The place is the Smith's two-car garage, half of which never is occupied, and now contains boxes on which the members sit.

Jack Smith is president. Jack Smith: Well, kids, here we are. What are we going to do about it?

Tony: About what?

Smith: Why this doggone old war, of course. Look at us. We're all different. Are we going to bust up or stay friends?

Tony: We're plans, ain't we? The war's all baloney anyhow. It's not our war, it is?

What are ya talking about?

Smith: Hold on there. You're talking through your hat. I happen to know that Henry and Bill had a fight on Thursday night about something in the papers. Look at Henry's nose. And Bill's got his hand bandaged. And look at Buck and Ivan this minute glaring at each other. This can't be a club any longer. My Dad says so. He said people hate each other just because it's in the air.

Walter: All right, we do. But about band. Nor does it prevent them from entering the ports of belligerents, if again, they do not carry contraband.

But contraband lists published by the different nations are apt to be pretty inclusive. Furthermore, no belligerent so far has officially established a war zone, and the picture won't be clear until that is done.

the dogs we promised to rescue and horses we promised to report when we saw them starved. They gotta suffer, too?

Fred: I saw a man kick a mother hound when she had six puppies. Broke her ribs, he did.

Smith: Where is she?

And so the Dogs Joined the Club.

Fred: I went over last night and swiped the lot of them. They're in my cellar, but my mother won't let me keep them.

Smith: Steady! Why you darn fool, you know very well this club will take care of them. My mother said we could use this garage for anything we wanted. Let's put it to vote.

All in favor of getting those dogs and bringing them here to be looked after by all of us say "yes."

Chorus: Any Kicks?

Silence.

Smith: Then we'll all o and bring them here, now.

Gustav: But I thought the club was not to—

Smith: Oh, shut up.

Veteran Arkansas Guards

FAYETTEVILLE — With four better men available for guard duty, the Arkansas Razorbacks aren't worrying much about the center of the line. Wilfred Thorpe of Little Rock and Milton Simington of Dickens were the regular guards last season and both are of all-conference calibre. A. J. Yates of Bentonville and Sam Parker of Little Rock filled in acceptably for Thorpe and Simington last season and should see plenty of action this year. Thorpe and Simington weight over the 200-pound mark, while Yates and Parker are just under that figure.

1 1/2 Million Jobs in Arms Factories

Economist Foresees Boom If Europeans Buy Materials Here

WASHINGTON —(AP)—A federal economist, who declined to be quoted by name, estimated Thursday a million to a million-and-a-half million employed persons would get jobs by January 1 if the war brings large foreign orders to this country.

It would stimulate more intensive investment of private capital, and it is possible as many more persons would be re-employed by spring, he added.

He estimated there are now nine million jobless persons in this country.

Liner Bremen Is Captured, Report

Persistent Report That British Have 20-Million-Dollar Ship

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—The British Press Association said that according to reports prevalent Wednesday and not denied, Germany's crack liner Bremen had reached a British port under escort of naval vessels. The press association said "for some days various stories have circulated that the Bremen had been captured and was on her way to England. Though no official confirmation was forthcoming in London this morning the story of the liner's capture was not denied."

Mystery has surrounded the Bremen since she left New York August 30 two days before Germany invaded Poland. She has not been definitely reported since. Last Saturday the German ambassador to Russia, Count Frederich von der Schulenberg, intimated the $26,000,000 ship had been captured by Britain. He said questions concerning the ship should be referred to Winston Churchill, first lord of the British Admiralty.

"American authorities," he said, "were so kind as to hold up the Bremen for 22 hours and so far as I know the British have rather fast destroyers. The Bremen sailed from New York without passengers after being held up for lifeboat and other inspections."

Pasture Meet at Station Sept. 29

Dean Walter R. Horlacher of University to Be Among the Guests

The annual pasture meeting will be held at the Fruit & Truck Branch Experiment Station on Friday afternoon, September 29 at 3 p. m. states G. W. Ware, assistant director, in charge of the station.

Dean Walter R. Horlacher, formerly head of the Department of Animal Husbandry and now dean and director, will be present to participate in the meeting. Professor Martin Nelson, head of the Department of Agronomy, College of Agriculture; Paul Corruth, Extension Dairy Specialist; M. W. Muller, Extension Livestock Specialist, and J. P. Hains, District Agent will also be present to assist with demonstrations in terracing, sodding, seeding, insecticiding, mowing, harrowing, bit-terweed control, and general management of pastures.

This is a most valuable meeting for persons interested in pasture development, and a large number of interested farmers are expected to be present.

Small Tennessee Team Holds Vanderbilt to Tie

NASHVILLE, Tenn., (AP)—Tennessee Polytechnic Institute handed Vanderbilt a first class surprise Wednesday with an aerial attack that cost the Commodores a 13-13 tie. A 25-yard pass from Herbert Bridges to Russell Priest counted six points and Ralph Williams' place-kick added another in the last three minutes of the game to nullify a lead Vandy had held from midway in the third period.

Vanderbilt began the scoring when Julius Plunkett plunged over minutes after he had sped 50 yards with lateraled ball, from Hardy Housman, G. C. Salmon scored for Tech from the 10 after a Vandy fumble had been gathered in.

Vanderbilt's best blow was delivered in the third quarter with Roy Higgins passing 45 yards to Housman on the goal line, Plunkett drop-kicked for the conversion.

Roy Andrus, Vandy captain, was forced to the bench in the second period with an injured knee. He may be lost for the rest of the season.

Prescott to Meet Porkers On Friday

Wolves to Be In Good Condition for Texarkana Squad

PRESCOTT Ark., — Coach O. H. Story watched his Prescott high school Curly Wolves go through a tough workout here Wednesday afternoon, and seemed inclined to believe that if the team shows as much hustle and fight as it did during workouts, the local outfit stood an excellent chance of defeating the Texarkana Ark. Razorbacks here Friday night.

True, the Wolves dropped their season's opener 38 to 0 to the Blytheville Chicks, but at that, according to Coach Story, the team looked good. The Chicks, regard as a serious threat to win the state championship this season, displayed a championship brand of ball against the Wolves.

The local team came out of the Blytheville game in excellent condition. Coach Story said that there was not a single injury noticeable in the squad Wednesday, indicating that the team is in good condition.

Baker, Prescott's 182-pound half-back is the mainstay of the local team's backfield. He does the passing, kicking and a great part of the running. The one player who is scheduled to give the Razorbacks the most trouble is Baker, a six foot seven inch end who tips the scales at 210 pounds. The Blytheville team failed to gain a single foot around his end during last week's game. From the way he has started the season, there is little doubt that he will be selected on the all-state team at the end of the season.

Coach Story said that he probably would start Kelley and Baker at ends. Cox and Erskine, tackles; Cooper and Adams, guards, Captain Wilson, center; Hallsell, and Ellis, halfbacks, Smith, quarter back and Stainton, fullback.

The Prescott line will average about 172 pounds and the backfield about 372 pounds and the backfield 160 pounds.

Pastor Is Knocked Out In 11th Round

Challenger Puts Up Surprising Battle In Late Rounds

DETROIT (AP)—Minus just about all of the fire and fury that has chopped down his most recent opponents, but still packing power in his fists, Joe Louis knocked out Bob Pastor in 11 rounds, Wednesday night to retain his world's heavyweight championship.

But he wasn't the fighter who defeated Max Schmeling, John Henry Lewis and Tony Galento so completely. He had Pastor down on the floor four times in the first round from right hand punches, and again in the second the former New York University footballer was on the verge of annihilation. On two other occasions Bob was badly hurt. Yet each time the knockout spark was lacking, Joe was slow to take advantage of the opportunities and seemed unable to box with the gallant rival who came up off the floor, defended beautifully, and even came back to carry the fight to the champion in the later heats.

Pastor Tires at Halfway Mark
Pastor tried, and that cost him the fight just the midway mark of the first scheduled 20-round heavy-weight title fight in a quarter century. Less than half a minute after the 11th round got under way, Louis suddenly leaped in and fired a short right and Pastor went down.

He rose to his knees at the count of four, but could go any farther. Ther he huddled, head hanging and blood dripping from a cut over his left eye, as Referee Sam Hennessey counted 10 over him, finishing at the 38-second mark of the round to give Louis the eighth successful defense of his title since he took it from Jim Braddock in 1937.

Bob "Didn't See" Punch
In his dressing room later Pastor said he "didn't see the punch coming."

"My eye was full of blood," he explained, "and I was blinded. The punch paralyzed me and I didn't know anything until I heard the referee count nine."

Bob climbed on his "bicycle" again this time, just as he back-peddled in his first fight with Louis in '37, but tonight he came forward time after time to throw short lefts to the face and to land once or twice with a right hand.

Louis Wants Galento.
With this bout past, Louis looks forward to a return match with Tony Galento, who gave him "a lot of trouble for three rounds last June. This fight is scheduled for next summer. Promoter Mike Jacobs indicated he may give Pastor another crack at the champion, after Bob fights once or twice more Jimmy Johnson, Pastor's manager asked for Galento.

At the start it didn't appear the Pastor was going to last any longer with Louis than did Schmeling, Lewis and Jack Roper, all of whom were put away in less than a round.

Louis came out swinging and belted Bob to the floor with a right. Pastor was up with no count, and promptly went down again from a couple more of those terrific right hand blows. This time he took a nine-count before climbing up but it was only to go down once more, for a count of seven. He weathered the storm for a few moments after that, but was dropped to one knee just at the bell.

Beer Barrel Poker Lays Barrage

Battered into helplessness, Lou Nova sags under Tony Galento's fists in the 14th round of their battle at Municipal Stadium, Philadelphia. In background is Referee George Blake, who stopped the fight a few seconds later and awarded technical knockout victory to the Jersey barkeep.

Saturday, September 30, to Be Deadline for Paying Poll Tax

The following statement on payment of poll taxes released jointly by Attorney General Jack Holt and Auditor J. Oscar Humphrey is, so far as the law is concerned, an official opinion by the attorney general's office.

The new law fixes the deadline for payment of poll taxes October 1, but since this falls on Sunday this year the actual deadline will be Saturday night, September 30. The official statement follows.

Act 82 of the Acts of Arkansas, 1939, changes the old law and provides that a person may now pay his poll tax up to midnight of the first day of October of his year (1939).

Please bear in mind that it is absolutely necessary for everyone who wishes to vote in the primary next year (1940) to have a poll tax issued prior to midnight of the first day of October, 1939.

All persons who failed to assess last year and who wish to pay their poll tax between now and midnight October 1, may assess delinquent with the assessor and pay their poll tax without a penalty, under the provisions of Section 4 of the Acts of Arkansas, 1939, which reads as follows:

"That the collectors of the various counties of the state are hereby authorized and directed not to collect the penalties provided by law for delinquent poll tax assessments for the year 1938, upon which assessment taxes are to be paid in 1939."

Do not forget you must have a poll tax issued and dated prior to midnight October 1, 1939, in order to vote in the primary of 1940.

On account of the importance of this change in the law, which might bar thousands of good citizens from voting in the primary next year because they have not been made aware of the change, will you, who read this article, please inform as many people as possible in your county of the change in the law.

WE, THE WOMEN

In the next few weeks there is going to be a lot of unhappiness on college campuses. The girl or boy who wants to pledge a sorority or turn down will feel pretty bad about it for a long time.

It doesn't matter that older people may think it is a might unimportant business. It isn't to the very young.

Some of them carry a chip on their shoulders all through college because of it. Others lose all interest in campus activities. Still others stop school at the end of the first semester making up some excuse for their parents and friends.

It is too bad they don't know how easy it is for a boy or girl to get along famously without a sorority or fraternity—so well, in fact, that in a year he can have bids from any group he cares to join.

All he has to do, is make a go of it alone. Get on the debating team get a job on the college paper or year book—or any of the dozens of jobs he can do.

Campus Activity May Bring Bid
The only thing for him to remember is to get into something for which he has talent—and then to work hard at it.

'Pass and Touch' Games for Hope Boys Offered

Raymond Urban announced Thursday that he would meet all youths desiring football training and recreation at Fair Park, beginning next Monday afternoon.

Urban said teams would be organized and "pass and touch" games would be played. Training in passing, running and kicking will be offered.

Urban said no "rough stuff" would be permitted at any time, but offered his services in teaching youngsters kicking, passing and running.
Youths interested are urged to report to him at the baseball field, Fair Park, after school hours.

rest is left up to you.

Now, about the football game. The Bobcats appear to be favorites. The locals will pack a heavy weight advantage, plus a veteran team.

However, Snackover has always "painted" for the Hope battle and usually put up their hardest fight against the Bobcats. The records will show that Hope has never beaten the Buckaroos by more than three touchdowns.

To Use Six Guards

Coach Foy Hammons said Thursday that he planned to use six guards in the game in an effort to find a running mate for Charles Quimby, regular line backer.

Provided the score is favorable at the half, Hammons said he would call on his reserve backfield for action. The coach also hopes to give Loy Ward and J. D. Jones some experience
"under fire" at the end positions.

The Snackover squad, positions and weights:

President Gives a

Mr. Roosevelt advised the group that a statement should be issued on behalf of all. He wrote out this statement and then passed it around for suggestions. Some minor changes were made, and the statement was given to reporters by Stephen Early, White House secretary. The statement said:

"The conference, with unanimous thought, discussed the primary objective of keeping the United States neutral and at peace. There was complete accord that in congressional and executive action, the whole subject and its many ramifications be dealt with in a wholly non-partisan spirit.

"It was made clear that the most important subject is the repeal of the embargo and a return to the processes of international law.

"Finally, the conference discussed the methods of dealing with the six points relating to Americans traveling on belligerent ships, cash and carry etc.

"It was the consensus that the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations take up the legislation as soon after congress convenes as possible."

meeting since war was declared. It was considered an answer to Adolf Hitler's Danzig speech of yesterday.
Interpreted here as a bid to France and Britain to give up Poland as lost and make peace.

Germany Turn to West
BERLIN, (AP)—The German army turned its attention Wednesday to liquidation of its virtually completed campaign in Poland. A delegation of German officers left for Moscow, presumably to settle further Soviet Russian-German collaboration in Eastern Europe while the Foreign offices of the two countries discussed plans for division of their interests in Poland.

The Nazi high command disclosed an agreement had been reached on the partition of Poland, at least as far as their own plans of occupation are concerned. German forces, it said, would withdraw from their present positions after "destruction of the last remnants of the Polish army there" to the "demarcation line definitely fixed between the German and Russian government."

Mopping up of remnants of the Polish army continued and possibly will go on for a week but these were termed local tasks of minor importance, now that the biggest assembly of Polish troops was said to have been defeated north of Lodz. The high command described this battle as "one of the most fighting covered 300 square miles and was waged from September 10 to September 19.

The Germans were reported to have taken 120,000 Polish prisoners up to today. More than 100,000 of these were said caught north of Lodz in the vicinities of Kutno, Leczyca, Ozorkow, Lowicz, Suchozacz and Syszowgrad.

Colonies Expected

per cent, nickel, 100 per cent; chromium, 100 per cent; manganese, 30 per cent.

Figures have not been given, but the French colonies also produce much cotton which France would use for the manufacture of high explosives, and a great deal of wool for clothing.

And Fighting Men Are Plentiful
The colony of Algeria especially supplies wheat, barley and sheep. Tunis supplies wheat, dates, barley, olives, phosphates and sheep. The protectorate of Morocco supplies wheat, barley, phosphates and sheep. It also gives France much-needed cobalt and molybdenum, which are used in the manufacture of high-grade steel for guns and munitions.

The other African possession, including the vast island of Madagascar supply vegetable oils, rubber, cotton cacao and coffee. Indo-China supplies rubber, tin, zinc, and rice.

Not less important is the support the colonies can give in the way of soldiers and workers. The Algerians, Tunisians, Moroccans and black Senegalese were among the finest shock troops the French had in the last world war. In that conflict the French colonies furnished a total of 587,450 soldiers and 200,000 laborers, who dug trenches, laid railway tracks and performed a lot of other necessary work.
It is estimated that in the presented war these same colonies will be able to furnish 2,000,000 soldiers and 500,000 workers.

Revolution Denied
by Nazi Official

Scoffs at British Report of Trouble in Bohemia,
Moravia

LONDON, Eng. —(AP)—The British ministry of information said Wednesday that a revolutionary movement was reported authoritatively to have started last Sunday in Bohemia and Moravia, which became a German protectorate in the break-up of Czech-Slovakia last March. The movement was said to have followed labor demonstrations in Prague which developed into "serious" clashes.

The ministry said it was reported that in spite of "ruthless" repressive measures by Germans the fight against superior forces was continuing.

At Berlin, a spokesman for Baron Konstantin von Neurath, Reich protector for Bohemia and Moravia, described the reports as "nonsense." He invited Berlin correspondents to visit Prague and convince themselves.

March.

Mrs. Robert W. Newell, 60, whose husband, also an insurance executive, died last January.

Mrs. Thomas E. Wood, 58, wife of the chief rate clerk for the Arkansas Corporation Commission.

The fourth occupant of the car,
Mrs. Will B. Harris of Morrilton, 53, was injured so gravely that attendants at St. Anthony's hospital at Morrilton feared she would not survive. She suffered internal injuries, a fractured leg and shock.

She is a sister of Mrs. Wood.
Mrs. Leigh and Mrs. Wood were killed instantly. Mrs. Newell died en route to a hospital. The women were returning home after attending a conference of women of the Episcopal church, Arkansas diocese, which ended yesterday afternoon. The accident occurred shortly before 2 a. m.

Sheriff Elmer Thomas and other officials who investigated the accident were of the opinion the car was traveling too fast to negotiate the curve.

pany's application to construct a gas line from the Cotton Valley, La.
field to Hope and Okay, Ark.

Mr. McFadden appeared before the council and gave an oral report on proceedings of the hearing in which the Arkansas Utilities Commission granted the Louisiana-Nevada concern the application to construct the gas line.

Under a contract between the City of Hope and the new gas company, the municipal water and light plant would be furnished fuel for 10 cents per thousand cubic feet—which would mean a saving about $7,500 per year.

His unusual activities arouse the suspicions of Scotland Yard, and his struggles are further complicated when a young and beautiful girl decides to align herself with him in his life-and-death fight to assert justice.

MINA, Nev.—(AP)—An unusual partnership exists in operation of a small mine in the Camp Douglas district.
The miners are Al Lacey, 80 years old, and Harry Springer, aged 13. The partners recently got off a shipment of gold ore to the smelter.

Cleverly extorting himself from a false charge of murder, and risking his life to protect his feminine partner who has become the target for the gang's vengeful activities, "The Saint" slowly amasses the evidence to indict his enemies.
